Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Thornton entertained with a reception and dance at the Country Club last evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thornton. The club was beautifully decorated with asparagus ferns and zinnias of all colors in tall brown wicker vases. In the center of the dining room table was a tall basket filled with zinnias and tied with a great bow of pink tulle. Four low silver bowls filled with ophelia roses were on each corner of the table. The room was lighted by white candles which were placed on the table. The pink and white color scheme was carried out in the refreshments which were served in the dining room. Punch was served on the porch. The Quadrangle Orchestra furnished the music during the evening.

Those in the receiving line were: Dr. and Mrs. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stephens, Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Robnett, Mrs. Elizabeth Rafferty, Charles Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. HUNDREDS SEE NEW FASHIONS

14 Living Models Display Women's Winter Apparel at Wolff-Berger's.

The fashion show held by the Wolff-Berger Co. yesterday afternoon attracted almost 600 women and girls. The second floor of the Broadway shop would not accommodate more than 300 at one time so all could not see the entire display.

Fourteen living models showed winter apparel for little girls between 6 and 13 years old, for the miss and for the middle-aged woman.

The color scheme of gray, red and yellow was carried out on the elevated promenade which ran the length of the room. Scarlet sage and golden red were arranged in gilded and gray baskets on gray pedestals. Above the palms and ferns which backed the promenade was a gray wicker bird-cage from which a little canary saw the fashions.

For the small girl, navy blue and shades of tan predominated. The dark serge frocks were brightened with a touch of red. Beaver hats with gro-grain ribbon streamers were worn with fur-trimmed coats made on simple lines.

Soft pile fabrics are used for suits and cloaks. Sorrento blue surpasses the more staple shades of navy and midnight blue. This color is most effective when combined with gray squirrel or karacul. Beaver, which is one of the most popular fur trims this season, is seen on tan and brown suits and cloaks.

More trimming is apparently used now than ever before. There are fur chokers on almost every wrap, even on the kiddies' small coats, and bands of fur on the uneven coats of suits, and when there are not deep fur cuffs, there are bands of the fur on the sleeves.

Braid and embroidery are used extensively on cloaks, suits and dresses. There are many headed effects in cloth dresses for street and afternoon wear. Evening dresses sparkle with iridescent beads in crystal and bright colors as red, juchia, deep blue and orange.

Those taking part in the fashion show were: Little Mary Jane Mayo, Grace Butwell, Jane Mehl, Ruth Bamford, Elsie Burton, Betty Bamford, and Misses Ellen Jane Frohman, who sang; Lucille Richardson, who read and sang; Margaret Neal; Margaret Hutchinson, Catherine Ware; Malvina Lamon; Mary Hutton, and Mrs. Pruitt Anderson.

College Hears Dean Calder.
Dean Robert Scott Calder, who is head of the department of religious education at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., spoke at Chapel at Christian College yesterday noon. His subject was, "The Lost Book." Dean Calder is attending Preachers' Week.

VOCATE "ART NUMBER" OUT

September Issue Features Article by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. The September "Art Number" of The Vocate, a magazine for vocational students in District No. 9, which includes Missouri and a number of other Middle Western states, is now off the press.

The feature of the number is an article by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., entitled "It Shall Be the Pacific in the Future." There are also two short stories, "Don Pedro—Aire-Jale Extraordinaire," by Albert C. Nute, a student in the University, and "The Return of Jimmy O'Rourke, Prodigal," by Verne Victor Barnes, a student at Washington University.

The Vocate announces a contest, closing October 20, in which $8 will be given for the best 1500-word story, $4 for the best cartoon and $4 for the best joke.

The magazine is published in Columbia by a staff of vocational students in the University. Its subscribers are vocational students in the universities, schools and business colleges in the district that it covers.
